Accepts Invitation To Fly to Ottawa July 2 for Diamond Jubilee

TO BE THERE TWO DAYS

Youth Drops Boyishness and Assumes Role of Man with Career

Washington, June 24—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today accepted an invitation to fly to Ottawa on July 2 to participate in the Diamond Jubilee celebration of the Canadian Confederation.

Lindbergh's acceptance was announced by Secretary of State Kellogg, who had a conference with the ... Hume Wrong, Canadian charge d'affaires. Lindbergh will remain in Ottawa for two days.

The details of his trip will be worked out later.

Dropping his boyishness as one slips out of an old garment, Charles A. Lindbergh, "the flying kid," today assumes the role of a man of large affairs. He has a career—commercial aviation—and the old carefree flying days, the youthful abandon and the wild celebrations that marked his flight to Paris are all behind him.

OPEN NEW INQUIRY INTO NUNGESSER-COLI FATE

Forestry Service Receives Word That Indians Know Particulars About Fliers

Quebec, June 24—The forestry service today started on a new inquiry into a possible clew to the fate that befell Nungesser and Coli, the French transatlantic fliers.

G. C. Price, chief of the forestry service, received a telegram from a man named Trembiay, living at Bersimis, stating he had met an Indian who had given him "some interesting particulars about Nungesser and Coli," and that he would send a letter concerning all he had learned.

Forestry officials are making inquiries into the matter.

Although all clews up to the present have failed to yield any actual indications of the fate of the two fliers, after a conference between Premier Taschereau and Minister of Lands and Forests Mercier, the government has decided to continue its searching.

Instructions have been issued to government agents to interview Indians on their way to the St. Lawrence to determine whether they have seen any signs of the fliers.

Many are expected to come in from the interior on June 29 to celebrate St. Peter's Day and they will be closely interviewed.

Sixteen Producers Decide To Join in Economy and Efficiency Wave

Hollywood, Cal., June 24—Wary price film fame ... along movie row today between stars and those who are ... in the cinema profession ... anxiety over the new economy wave which has hit the studios.

"Ask me another one," was the rejoinder of a certain actor ... has been accustomed to ... for the films for not less than $2,000 a week when asked whether she would lop off a couple of thousand from the stipend to help stabilize the industry.

Producers declare that fabulous salaries and mounting costs of production have become prohibitive and 16 studios here have joined in a program of economy and efficiency.

The move was started yesterday when Jesse Lasky, vice president of Paramount-Famous Players Corporation, announced that all employes would be asked to accept salary reductions ranging from 10 per cent and up, with proportionately larger cuts for stars, directors and high-salaried technicians and experts.

While none of the stars whose salaries run in four figures would comment on the producers' ukase, all who might be affected looked to their contracts and were content that their papers had not yet expired.

"Haven't heard a word about it," was the calm reply of one grim visaged actor whose screen villainy nets him $2,000 a week. "Anyway, my contract has another year to run."

Mutineering Kansas Prisoners Issue Demands to Board by Telephone

Lansing, Kan., June 24—Negotiations between the state board of administration and the 32? mutineering convicts in the mines of the Kansas State Penitentiary will be carried on by telephone and in a deliberate and leisurely manner, members of the board said today, following the presentation of ten demands of the convicts.

Warden W. H. Mackey, who was absent on official business when the mutiny occurred, returned to the prison today and went immediately into executive conference with the board and with R. H. Hudspeth, acting warden in charge of the prison. Mackey would make no statement concerning the demands.

Officials believe the convicts are prepared for a protracted siege in the mines from the assumed manner of the spokeman for the convicts, who told the board to "take all the time you want to consider our demands."

The convict mutiny entered upon its third day today.

Hunger is believed to be the agency that will finally force the prisoners to come forward, releasing with them 14 guards held in the mine electric shop. The "strike" began at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning as a demonstration when the men were denied cigarets.

TWO OHIO PRISONERS FAIL IN ESCAPE ATTEMPT

Trusty Drives Pair from Hiding Place in Woolen Mill

Columbus, June 24—Two prisoners at Ohio Penitentiary here are in solitary confinement today, following their unsuccessful attempt to escape when they were discovered by a "lifer," who is also a trusty. The men, Robert Mooney, Toledo, and Alfred White, Cleveland, Warden Thomas reported, hid in the prison woolen mills Thursday after work, but were missed when their company marched to supper.

The trusty, Charles Bird, Thomas said, is detailed as a night watchman and discovered the men crouching behind a machine. He drove them from the building with a hammer where they were overpowered by guards.

Mooney is serving 10 to 25 years for robbery. He was imprisoned April 21, 1927. White is serving from 10 to 25 years for robbery. He began his term Dec. 12, 1926.

Carter, who from the first contended he was ready to die and who laughed at the efforts of his attorneys to obtain a stay of execution, showed he was ready this morning. He walked from "death row" to the execution room and chatted with the officials there as he was strapped in the chair.

"Be sure and fix this right," he remarked, "so that it will get me the first time."

BRUTALITIES RECOUNTED BY SERBIAN REFUGEES

Blame for Besillegrad Outrage Placed Upon Militia

Sofia, June 24—Tales of horrible brutalities, charged against a Serbian captain and his troops, with a heavy loss of life, have been received here from Kostendil, where a group of terror stricken men, women and children have arrived from Besillegrad, Serbia.

The Serbian troops are alleged to have bombarded a church in Besillegrad, which is just across the Serbian frontier from Bulgaria and has a large Bulgarian population. The church was filled with refugees at the time of the bombardment and many were killed, it is alleged, although the refugees are unable to give the number of victims.

Refugees also charge that hundreds were arrested in Besillegrad and the vicinity and beaten.

Serbian militia was sent out in search of an alleged Bulgarian band of raiders and shot down many innocent persons, the reports declared.

BRITAIN FIRM, WASHINGTON IS CONCERNED

Ultimate Failure of Geneva Conference Is Already Envisioned in Capital, as Contrast Between Washington Parley and Present Session Becomes Marked

BRITISH REFUSE TO MODIFY PROPOSALS

Also Are Annoyed at Manner in Which United States and Japan Have Received Plans; Bridgeman Threatens To Call Plenary Session

Geneva, June 24—Great Britain has refused to withdraw, or at present modify, the proposals which it has made to the tripartite naval disarmament conference here regarding the reduction of the size and life of capital ships, the International News Service learned today.

Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, suggested to the Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, chief British delegate, that the proposals be withdrawn since they are not within the scope of the present conference, but Bridgeman declined to withdraw the proposals but agreed to give the American delegates a complete memorandum elaborating on the entire scheme of the British for reduction of capital ...

May Demand Session

"Great Britain always has been most desirous of obliging the United States and meeting President Coolidge's wishes in furthering his and the Washington government's disarmament desires," Bridgeman told Gibson. "Great Britain has been and still is working for limitation at least, if not reduction of armaments.

"The British government has been of the opinion that any proposition to reduce of further limit capital ships was in furtherance of America's peace policy."

Bridgeman even went so far as to threaten to demand a plenary session of the conference next Tuesday in order to force Gibson to state fully and publicly the American position as regards capital ships.

British Annoyed

British spokesmen have made no effort to hide their annoyance at the manner in which their proposals have been received by both the United States and Japan and they declare that the United States delegates are introducing minor matters and are offering sentiments "as thin as air."

In particular the British are offended that the United States has brought up the question on the large British merchant marine and the question of this merchant marine being readily adaptable to fighting purposes in time of war.

Bridgeman advised Gibson that Great Britain was willing to discuss the possibilities of its merchant marine being converted into war vessels but he said he considered such discussion useless since in case of war all liners and other ships would be armed for defense and every other purpose.

Bridgeman Chairman

When Bridgeman's refusal to withdraw the capital ship proposals had been received by the American delegation, Gibson informed the British lord of the admiralty that the United States is not desirous of reducing the maximum tonnage of destroyers from 3,000 tons.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the naval limitations conference today, it was decided to appoint Bridgeman chairman. Decision also was reached to form groups of naval experts to study the question on limitation of cruisers, destroyers and submarines from a purely technical point of view.

To Ask Instructions

Prior to the committee meeting, the American delegation held an hour's conference at the Hotel Des Bergues. The British delegation likewise met in a brief session with their dominion representatives.

The capital ship question was broached at the committee meeting, the British delegates maintaining their previously announced stand. Great Britain requested that the matter be placed in the agenda for discussion ...

American and Japanese ... [illegible]

Washington, June 24—Officialdom in Washington has been concerned, and not a little nettled, over Great Britain's attitude toward further naval disarmament as revealed this week at the Geneva conference.

In the six years that have elapsed since Great Britain "joyously accepted" naval equality with the United States at the Washington conference, one official cynically observed today, British views on naval armament appear to have undergone a complete transformation. And another official said: "The British lion at Washington in 1921, and the British Lion at Geneva in 1927, are two different beasts."

Great Britain and the United States stood shoulder to shoulder in the Washington arms conference six years ago, and it was this solidarity that finally broke down all France-Japanese opposition to the great world reform proposed by America, and resulted in the ... 5-5-3 treaty. The British and American delegates at Washington spoke with the same voice.

Fear Failure

The contrast between Washington and Geneva is so marked, however, that it is almost the sole topic of discussion in diplomatic and official circles here. Instead of mutually supporting each other's views, as at Washington, the American and British delegates at Geneva have collided upon almost every major point of further naval reduction, and so serious are these differences that the ultimate failure of the tripartite conference at Geneva is already envisioned here.

America threw the naval leadership of the world upon the table in 1921 and sacrificed thousands of tons of new naval construction upon the altar of world disarmament. The gesture was so magnificent that it moved Lord Balfour, chief of the British delegation, to tears, as he pledged that Britain would "loyally cooperate with America in the greatest reform ever carried out by courage and statesmanship."

At the time Britain was faced with certain loss of world's naval supremacy, and as Balfour said, Britain "joyously accepted" naval equality with the United States in capital ships.

Hope for Mastery

Today at Geneva, the British delegation headed by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, not only has refused to accept the similar American proposal of naval parity in auxiliary ships, but has even insisted that the Washington treaty be reopened and changes made in it that would make Britain once more the "mistress of the seas."

"Britain," said Bridgeman, in a speech that has been carefully marked down here in Washington, "depends upon control of the seas for her existence. For the United States, naval equality is simply a luxury and political by-play."

As viewed here, this comes dangerously near an official renunciation of the naval equality which Britain so "joyously accepted" in 1921. And it moved Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri to remark sarcastically:

"How different from 1921!"

Stand by Ratio

Administration officials have met the new British position with the adamant stand that there will be no sacrifice of the 5-5-3 ratios suggested by the American delegation at Geneva. The United States, it was pointed out today, ... [illegible]

APPOINTMENT IS ACCEPTED BY J. W. JACOBY

Marion Realtor and Attorney To Serve on Realty License Board

J. W. Jacoby, Marion realtor and attorney who was appointed several days ago by Governor Donahey as one of the three examiners who will have charge of the state's new licensing system for real estate dealers, has formally accepted the appointment, he stated today. His commission, making him a member of the board of examiners for a term of two years, came from the governor yesterday.

J. E. Smith, of Cleveland, and John Wood, of Georgetown, are the two other members of the borad. Smith's appointment is for three years and Wood was named for the one-year term.

The new license system, which will require all real estate dealers in the state operating on a commission basis to obtain official permits from the board of examiners, is to become effective July 1. The examiners plan to meet on or before that date in Columbus to organize and make preliminary arrangements for operations.

Work To Be Heavy

Work of the board will be exceptionally heavy at the outset, as it is estimated that there are approximately 15,000 real estate brokers and salesmen in Ohio whose applications for licenses must be acted upon.

There are about 40 in Marion who must comply with provisions of the new law, according to preliminary figures.

Examination of brokers and salesmen now in the real estate business will be conducted by sending out questionnaires, according to present plans of the examining board. It is likely however, that applicants for licenses who have not been engaged in the business will be required to appear before the board.

The broker's license fee for the first year will be $10 and $5 for each year thereafter. Salesmen will pay a fee of $2 annually. Each broker will be required to post a bond of $1,000.

Office in Columbus

The examining board will have its headquarters in office rooms to be centrally located in Columbus and meetings will be held at stated times in accordance with a schedule to be fixed by the board when it meets to organize.

The board will operate under supervision of the state director of commerce, who is executive head of the new license bureau.

Quoted from Bulletin of the Ohio State Dept. of Health

TUBERCULOSIS is something to be conquered — not yielded to. If your lung is affected, keep your head. You can get well right here in Ohio, close to friends and relatives, without the need for lonely and expensive trips to other climates. There is at your service, down in the pure air and bright sunshine of the south-eastern hills, a wonderful sanatorium devoted entirely to the treatment of lung diseases; the oldest private institution of its kind in the state.

Queer Bedfellows Forseen In States' Rights Battle

People Who Set Up Cry Before Will Not Change

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 24 — Some queer folks [illegible] set up the States' Rights' cry at the next session of congress, and [illegible] people who have hollered "States' Rights" [illegible] will holler [illegible]

FRANK L. SMITH

The Democrats were the original States'Right ers. It was a doctrine the Republicans didn't think so much of. Now nearly all the Republicans, except the so-called progressive group, appear to be on the point of getting over onto the States' Rights' side of the fence, with most of the Democrats in opposition.

• • •

THE showdown [illegible] come when Frank L. Smith offers his credentials as senator-elect from Illinois.

If Smith were [illegible] to make his fight alone, he'd be [illegible] down simply "because." No [illegible] would be offered. It seems, however, that he's going to have his state's backing. If the senate rejects him, as it will, to a certainty, Illinois will ask, "Why?"

The question will call for an answer. An individual "like Smith can be 'pooh-poohed'" when he [illegible], but when a state's [illegible] senatorial representation, [illegible] to demand a reason.

• • •

WE know already what the senate's answer will be. It will say it considers that the fashion of Smith's nomination and maybe his election, was crooked.

To which Illinois will rejoin:

"The senate has the right to throw a man out if it doesn't like the way he acts after he becomes a member, but his election is nobody's blame [illegible] but his own state's. If it suits us, that's sufficient. Illinois chose Smith and insists on him."

• • •

BECAUSE Smith would be an "administration man," if he were to get in, the bulk of the Democrat senators and the Republican insurgents surely will be against him.

For the same reason the regular Republicans will favor him.

The "antis" will be in a majority. Smith will be excluded. That's a foregone conclusion.

However, there's no question that Illinois' argument will be sound, from an old-time States' Right-er's standpoint. At least one unreconstructed Democrat Senator Blease is so firm in the faith that he threatens to secede from his organization, though it won't change the result. He isn't numerous enough.

• • •

THE same fight will be made over Senator-elect Vare's Pennsylvania seat, if his state party stands pat for him.

The Pennsylvania Republicans haven't announced yet what they'll do about Vare, as the Illinois Republicans have done in Smith's case, but it's quite likely that the Sucker State's example, once [illegible], will be followed by the Keystone State.

Vare stands very little more chance of being seated than Smith does.

That, however, isn't the point.

The point is that both the [illegible] parties will be forced completely to reverse themselves on as fundamental a [illegible] as States' Rights [illegible] which is much more [illegible] than [illegible], too, in order to [illegible] wish and intend on these two [illegible] conspicuous propositions.

All of which just goes to show once more, as Washington [illegible] remarking, that you can't [illegible] the difference between a Republican and a Democrat any more, except [illegible] and then you only have the [illegible] word for it.

AT LEAST EIGHT LOCAL PERSONS TO GO TO PARIS

Others Considering Plans To Attend American Legion Convention in September

At least eight persons from Marion including World War veterans and their wives, will attend the Paris convention of the American Legion in September, according to information now in the hands of Legion officers here. J. Don Jones, commander of Bird McGinnis Post, No. 162, stated today.

This list may be increased later, as several other members of the local post have the trip under consideration, Bird McGinnis Post officers have been informed.

Yesterday an official bulletin was received here announcing that steamship reservations for the trip to Paris will close July 15 and that there will positively be no extension of time after that date. The bulletin, signed by Herbert R. Mooney, state Legion commander, and J. J. Saslavsky, department adjutant in charge of arrangements for the Ohio delegation to Paris, states that it will be absolutely necessary to close reservation on July 15 in order that the remainder of the time may be devoted to planning final details for the trip.

All Space Sold

All space on the official Ohio ship, the SS. Celtic, has been sold and to accommodate hundreds who were not certain at first that they could go, National Legion headquarters has assigned space on other ships to Ohio, the bulletin says. There are six of these ships, the first being the SS. Republic, sailing from New York on Aug. 6 and the last the SS. Montroyal, which will sail from Quebec on Sept. 9.

Rates on these ships range from $145.80 to $320.

Recalls Wilson's Condition

There is a marked sim[ilarity] [illegible] appearance between General Wood [illegible] present condition and Woodrow Wilson following the breakdown which confined the latter to a sick bed for the last year and a half of his service as president. As was the case with Wilson General Wood has to be lifted in and out of a motor car, eased into a chair, and stoutly assisted when he attempted to walk. He is suffering from injuries to his left leg and arms sustained in an automobile accident a month ago, and from two [illegible] ribs acquired on the boat coming to the United States. To all appearances he is suffering from a muscular paralysis affecting the whole left side although members of his party insist he [had] not had a stroke.

Some indication of the general's plans for the future may be had late today. President Coolidge has promised to let the newspapermen know when his guest will receive them—providing he is up to it physically.

ANIMAL LOSSES IN GREAT FLOOD SERIOUS BLOW

Mississippi Waters Drown Millions of Creatures in Sudden Rush

Memphis, Tenn., June 24—Trapped as were people but with no rescue fleets to save them, wild animals in the great forests of the Mississippi valley perished by the thousands when the roaring currents of the Father of Waters and its tributaries tore through levees and [rushed] upon them in terrific suddenness and depths.

The ruthless slaughter of animals by the disastrous floods was one of the greatest losses of the flood, according to accounts of refugees and rescue workers.

Years will be required to replace the wild animals which perished in the wholesale destruction.

Fish Destroyed

Hundreds of thousands of small minnows are being ruthlessly or thoughtlessly destroyed by fishermen in the vicinity of Memphis in their hunger for larger fry, according to an appeal issued here by Dan Wolf, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League.

A gloomy picture of conditions with some interesting sidelights on the hardships of animal life is painted by refugees from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi.

One trapper from Louisiana told the following story:

"Last week I saw a big black bear floating down the stream, perched on a tree. I found a three foot alligator on a floating bed near a deserted house. On a knoll I saw 75 deer. Several more were on a railroad track not far away."

"In a dry spot nearby there are more than 100 quail. I fed them with chicken feed for several days. Almost a half a hundred deer are being cared for in boxcars by game wardens. The refugees in some places are sharing their rations with the helpless deer."

Wild Animals Slaughtered

"But bodies of deer and all kinds of wild animals are seen every day by the dozens floating on the water having been drowned by the floods or starved to death when marooned."

Wolf's appeal to fishermen to stop destruction of minnows to preserve the future fishing possibilities was broadcast over the Commercial Appeal Tree [illegible] Appeal broadcasting station, WMC.

Seiners who are fishing the catching of fish and [illegible] cass in [illegible] drains to lakes, are not limiting themselves to what they need and are carelessly leaving thousands of minnows on the banks to die in the sun. Wolf said. They keep the big fish and throw the minnows on the banks instead of back into the water.

Fish will perish by the thousands without being deliberately slaughtered said Wolf, as many have been unfortunate enough to be in small water holes left by the flood that will soon dry up leaving the fish lying in a muddy field.

Lakes throughout the flooded valley were re-stocked by the flood as many fish found their way into the lakes from the rivers.

MITTEN WITHDRAWS HIS OFFER FOR B. L. E. BANK

Action Follows Opposition of Brotherhood Officials Investigating Proposals

Cleveland, June 24—According to word received today from Philadelphia Thomas E. Mitten, traction magnate and banker, has withdrawn his offer presented here over a week ago to purchase a controlling interest in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers banks.

Mitten's action it was said, followed stiff opposition of the committee of brotherhood officials appointed by delegates of the brotherhood convention now in session here, to investigate the proposal.

The rank and file of the organization were not favorable to turning control of their banks over to outside interests, it was stated, although certain officials of the brotherhood were believed to favor the affiliation.

DAUGHTER OF MINISTER ACTS

Miss Vivian Downey

DETROIT, June 24—One minister does not object to his daughter becoming an actress. In fact he emphatically approves. The minister is the Rev. Herman H. Downey of the Boulevard Temple M. E. Church.

He says of his daughter Vivian: "She always has wanted to have a stage career. I see nothing startling in the fact she has been successful in obtaining an engagement.

"There has always been a chasm between the church and the theater. I think that it is growing less and less broad. There can be many fine things done in the theater in their way, and when such girls as Vivian go into the theater professionally it is certain to help bridge the chasm."

CLYDE ROGERS PLEADS GUILTY TO FARM THEFT

Marion Man Sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory in Wyandot County

Clyde Rogers, 22, of this city, one of the nine men arrested as members of a band of livestock robbers making raids in farms in Marion County and vicinity during the last year, pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the Wyandot County common pleas court yesterday and was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory. His sentence was fixed at from two to seven years by Judge Carter, Wyandot County jurist.

When first arraigned Rogers pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for June 28. He changed his plea to guilty yesterday on advice of his attorney, Edward C. King of this city.

The indictment returned against Rogers accused him of having been implicated in the theft of sheep from the Charles Weiss farm north of Marion on March 21. He was first indicted in Marion county but before the date set for his trial it was ascertained that the Weiss farm is located in Wyandot county. The case was then transferred to that county.

Two Cases Pending

Sentencing of Rogers disposes of all of the farm robbery cases with the exception of two. W. C. "Shorty" Longfellow, who is accused of having acted as "sales agent" for the gang by disposing of the stolen property, stands convicted and has been sentenced to the penitentiary but execution of the sentence is suspended pending review of his case in the court of appeals.

Cecil Holcomb was arrested as an alleged member of the gang after the last grand jury had finished its work and his case will not be considered until the next grand jury session in September or October.

Round-up of the gang, which is said to have stolen farm property valued at several thousand dollars, was accomplished by officers of Marion, Hardin and Union Counties under the direction of Sheriff James A. Deal.

Prior to his arrest Rogers resided on Park blvd.

First Visitor Since Haley's

Pons-Winnecker Comet is the first celestial visitor [illegible] of the globe since Haley's Comet flashed across the sky in 1910. It is moreover the nearest approach of any comet since 1770. At its nearest Monday night, it will be only 3,500,000 miles away from the earth and about 15 times as far away as the moon.

From now on until Monday night when it will reach its climax, the comet will increase in brightness, until, at the time of its nearest approach it will appear larger than the full moon although by no means as bright.

For those Marion persons who are familiar with terms of astronomy, and are also familiar with the position of the various heavenly bodies, the comet will appear low [illegible] early Friday morning in the constellation Cygnus.

New Address Each Day

However the star will not remain there long and will lead those who attempt to follow it a merry chase all over the heavens. The schedule for the shooting body, according to the official astronomers at Washington, will include the star to begin the constellation Vulpecula June 25, Delphinus, June 26, Equuleus, June 27; Aquarius, June 28, Capricornus, June 29, and back to Aquarius, June 30.

This comet according to the Washington predictions, is one of the smaller stars. It was first seen at Marseilles, France by an astronomer named Pons, in 1819. Then it was lost and rediscovered by the German astronomer, Winnecke, in 1858.

The comet appears every six years, but this time is the first that it has ever been visible to the naked eye. It was first sighted this year at the Yerkes Observatory at the University of Chicago March 9 and it was calculated that it would come 60 times nearer the earth than ever before.

Groehl, who attained nation-wide legal recognition through his defense of Gerald Chapman, the notorious bandit, found his wife's body when he returned from a political dinner. Mrs. Groehl had been in ill health for two years and had threatened to take her own life.

A verdict of suicide was returned.

Even the announcement that the Pons-Winnecke comet will appear still larger than the moon, next Sunday evening, when it will come forty times closer to us than ever before and be a mere 3,500,000 miles away, doesn't enthuse us. The British in Shanghai are curious about the presence in China of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Senator Guy D. There's little occasion for a suspicion along that line. If anything of the kind were planned, it's hardly probable that that would be the bunch selected to do the reconnoitering.

France Is Unfortunate.

Were the peace-time leaders of France as able as her war-time leaders have generally been in the past, her fortunes today would be at far higher flow and world conditions as a whole would be far better than they are. In other words, French military leaders appear to possess far more ability than her so called statesmen. There are exceptions, of course, but we are speaking of the general rule.

It was not many months ago that the outlook for Franco-German rapproachement was excellent. Today understanding between the two is far away. The relations between them are almost as bitter as during the war. In fact, there seems to be more bitterness between their politicians now than there was between their soldiery in time of war.

Germany took the Locarno pact seriously. France seems to have looked upon it as another scrap of paper. Germany took the expressions of France at that time as coming from the heart. She now charges that they were merely vocal. She resents the refusal of France to withdraw the French troops from the territory of the Rhine upon the German guarantee of the inviolability of frontier, holding that the failure to withdraw the troops under the circumstances is utterly incompatible with the "Locarno spirit" of which the world some time since heard so much and an affront to Germany's good faith.

To add fuel to this flame of resentment, Poincare, who seems possessed of a desire at all times to pour vinegar into an open wound, went out of his way to delve into comparatively ancient history, a few days since to maintain a charge made by him that Germany was intentionally offering repeated affronts to France and was steadily plotting to regain the two "lost provinces."

The situation would not be so bad were it not for the fact that Poincare's charges are decidedly embarrassing to Foreign Minister Briand, who is expected to resign as a result of their utterance, which would probably mean the entire abandonment of the Locarno policy for which the foreign minister was responsible.

As we have said, France is singularly unfortunate in the possession of some of her politicians.

The Trend Toward Understanding.

We came upon a reference, one day recently, to the fact that labor has organized a life insurance company which plans to write old-time life insurance on scientific principles with adequate reserve and ample capital

There is scarcely a line of industry, business or finance in which labor is not engaged. Labor has its own banks and trust companies, its building and loan associations, its housing corporations, its business blocks. It owns and operates coal mines. It has its building material corporations, its cooperative general and special stores, and now it has entered the life insurance field. Not only all this, but labor is now financially interested in about all lines of industry and business in which it is employed. There is scarcely a city worthy the name where labor will be found not only financially interested in industry and business, but also active in the management of industry and business

To our mind, we have in this situation the real explanation of the change of feeling between labor and capital. Labor has become a capitalist. It knows, by its own experience in various enterprises which it owns and manages and through its insight into the manner in which enterprises in which it is financially interested are managed and operated, the perplexities which ever confront capital. It knows the problems which capital must face, and in the light of this knowledge, it has a far more kindly feeling toward and greater consideration for capital than it ever had before.

On the other hand, capital sees labor from an entirely different viewpoint from that of a decade or two ago. It has learned to respect labor as never before. It has learned to feel with labor and appreciation that labor also has its problems and perplexities. There is fully as great a change in the feeling of capital toward labor as there has been change in the feeling of labor toward capital. There has been an entire change, in consequence, in the attitude of each toward the other. Whereas each saw the other at its worst, two or three decades ago, today each sees the other, if not at its best, in far better light. The human element has been injected into the situation. Capital now realizes that its dealing with labor are far more than a mere matter of barter and sale; that there is something to be considered in addition to money payment in exchange for the efforts of labor.

This change of attitude on the part of both capital and labor has brought about an appreciation on the part of each for the other which has done much to smooth the march of progress in both the industrial and the business world. Both have been brought to realize that peace and prosperity can best be promoted by understanding, cooperation and recognition of a common interest; both have come to realization of the fact that the benefits and rewards to be gained through friendship and peace are far above and beyond and benefits to be gained through distrust and discord

And the happiest phase of this new condition, this new relationship which exists, is this: it is not passive. It is steadily growing. We see more and more evidences of it in industry and in business day by day, year by year. Today, as never before, we are closer to that ideal situation where there will be general recognition, unqualified recognition, by all capital and labor, that they are interdependent, and that there can not be marked attainment of success and benefit by one unless it carries success and benefit to the other. It is the general trend toward this situation which today enables us to enjoy the prosperity which as a people we enjoy.

Deafness in Wake of Colds.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Don't neglect your ears. Deafness is an embarrassing symptom. It lessens your earning power. It annoys your friends.

Deafness is one of the signs of age. You may not be old if you are deaf, but its presence indicates that you are on the way.

The trouble about deafness is its progressive nature. It is well along before you are aware of it. You may not be particularly annoyed until your hearing is really seriously impaired.

There are several varieties of deafness. That deafness may be due to several different causes. The most common is the so-called "catarrhal deafness."

The middle ear—the interior of the ear, beyond the ear drum—is lined with mucous membrane. This membrane is continued downward, through the "Eustachian tube," to the interior of the nose.

Almost everybody has more or less inflammation of the nasal mucous membrane. Increased secretion of mucus is the inevitable result of such inflammation. Whenever there is such an inflammation of the mucus membrane, with abnormal quantities of mucus, it is called "nasal catarrh."

The common cold is really acute nasal catarrh. "Running" from the nose is the familiar symptom.

Repeated and neglected colds result in a permanent inflammation and thickening of the nasal mucous membrane. That is chronic nasal catarrh. The dropping of mucus into the throat, the constant need of the handkerchief, the hawking and spitting are well known symptoms.

Nasal catarrh is bad enough, but the miserable trouble doesn't stop here. It creeps up the Eustachian tube, and in time, perhaps in years, the lining of the ears is involved. The thickened membranes interfere with the play of the ear drums and of the tiny ear bones which must be freely moveable if the hearing is to be perfect.

You can not afford to neglect your colds. This is particularly true if they are frequent. It is too common a theory for people to think a cold is "nothing." Really it is "something," something dangerous.

At the first evidence of ear trouble you should consult your physician and have him recommend an ear doctor. The specialist can help you in the beginning, but when the trouble is far advanced it is difficult to accomplish much.

My plea in this trouble is to give yourself early attention. The same rule applies here that you should follow in the control of all your troubles. "A stitch in time saves nine," and immediate attention to an ailment saves you an endless amount of suffering.

Editorial Comment.

PLUCKY POLAND.

The Polish government's courageous and self-respecting disposition of the diplomatic and legal complications raised by a fanatic's assassination of a soviet envoy raises the prestige of Poland in the eyes of the world and will have, we are confident, a good, rather than a bad, effect upon Russo-Polish relations.

A prolonged observation of soviet diplomatic tactics, supported by such information as is available of soviet internal conditions, has convinced us that they are largely bluff. Russia has always been overestimated as a military threat and the present communist ring after ten years of incompetent experimentation, has produced a condition which would even less sustain the effort of serious modern war than the inefficiency of the czarist bureaucracy.

A foreign campaign might momentarily distract the Russian mind from the deplorable effects of communist politics, economics, and organization, but war demands results. Once in the field against a courageous people, if the latter were well led and sufficiently supplied as we believe the Polish would be, the rotten mechanism sustained by main force in Russia would soon break down. Modern war demands a highly organized and efficient production. It does not exist in Russia today. Unlimited man power means only catastrophic sacrifices unless properly armed and supplied.

We think it is time the myth of the Russian menace were exploded. Communist mischief making is a nuisance in Europe at times and in Asia it has produced serious disturbances, perhaps even serious perils to colonial enterprises. But as a major threat in terms of military power, it is a fraud. If it were not, it would long since have become a reality.

American opinion has viewed Polish firmness in the face of soviet threat with admiration.—Chicago Tribune.

WORST IS STILL TO COME.

According to recent statistics only four of the forty-eight states had refrained from taxing gasoline. The number was reduced to three late Monday night when the Illinois senate, at the urgent demand of the governor, enacted such a law. The measure had already passed the house, been defeated in the senate, then reconsidered. It puts a two-cent tax on motor fuel.

Chicago, which tries to dominate the state government, but seldom succeeds, made a sectional issue of the proposed tax and supposed she had it beaten. Governor Small appears to have driven a hard bargain with enough Cook county senators to achieve his purpose. Remarks across the senate floor as the agreement came into the open were similar to those heard the same night on the floor of the Cleveland city council.

Ohio motorists, if not reconciled to the gas tax, are at least complacent. Chicago may be consoled by the thought that the two-cent rate now established is merely the beginning. She will have much more cause for grief as the tax is increased by succeeding legislatures. That is a habit of this tax.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LOCOMOTIVE EXPLOSIONS.

By the explosion of a locomotive boiler at Ship Road, on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, three men were killed Wednesday night. It was a most unusual accident. Thirty or forty years ago boiler explosions were not infrequent. But new structures of boiler plate were developed and means of withstanding strain, so that in later years they have been almost unheard of. Boiler explosions are almost always due to one cause. The water is allowed to fall below the top range of fire tubes and, with no evaporation to check them, they become red hot. Then the water feed is started up, and when the water rises again the superheated tubes transform it into steam so instantaneously that even double safety valves can not let it off. There results explosion and disaster.

The locomotive that blew up at Ship Road was one of the largest and most powerful on the Pennsylvania system. It was only four years old, had five driving wheels on each side, was fired by a mechanical stoker and had water-feed apparatus of the latest design. The only suggestion of defect is that some of the new water-feeding devices are so complicated that the engineer can not always be sure whether they are working.—Philadelphia Record

STATE TAXES.

The department of commerce has just completed a survey of state revenues and expenditures and finds that last year thirty-one states balanced their budgets and had a surplus. Indebtedness was decreased by twenty-three states, but the total indebtedness of all the states was greater last year than the preceding year, the per capita debt being $11.46, an increase of thirty-seven cents.

The legislatures of some forty states met the beginning of this year, but little attention was paid to reducing indebtedness or tax reform which was a big problem in Ohio because of the condition of state finances.

The federal government has been cutting expenses and reducing taxation, while municipalities and nearly half the states have increased debts and taxes, putting on individuals and corporations a heavier burden than the federal government removed.—Youngstown Vindicator.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A woman came into a lawyer's office recently and complained that she had been victimized by a bucket shop operator. She had lost the savings of years of toil

"Haven't you heard of fake stock sellers and bucket shops?" asked the lawyer. "The newspapers have been full of such information."

The woman answered: "I never read the newspapers."

Here is a woman apparently in the midst of us, but living in prehistoric times. The horizons come down about her house top.

It is up to us where we shall set our horizons. Above all things read the newspapers, at least a few minutes each day. Know what the world's about. Keep your horizons pushed out

In 1840 somebody seriously suggested that the patent office at Washington be abolished. For, said he, all possible inventions have been invented. So great has been the progress of man, he said, that it is inconceivable he can go any further in mechanical ingenuity.

We have always underestimated human ingenuity.

Nobody knows what will be invented tomorrow.

The production and transmission of power are likely to be revolutionized in our lifetime.

How about the cathode rays which may one day turn the immeasurable energy of electrons into practical uses for mankind?

Speaking of inventions and ingenuity, a writer lately said that Faraday's discovery of electrical induction was the most important event of the nineteenth century.

The great Gladstone, seeing Faraday's dynamo, asked: "What good is it?"

"So good that you'll see it taxed before you die," was the answer.

Even Gladstone didn't have imagination enough to cope with the possibilities of man's ingenuity.

Among the things not to worry about is the mythical saturation point of motor cars. Henry Ford says that with our capacity for making two million automobiles a year we are making just enough to sell a new car to every present owner once in six years."

A writer in the Electric Railway Journal says:

"Now there seems some basis for thinking there is no saturation point. Instead of one car there is, in many instances, a gasoline alley for each family.

Felix M. Warburg was born in Hamburg, Germany, January 14, 1871. He came to America in 1894 and became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1900. He has been a member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, New York since 1896 and is also a director of the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee company and the International Acceptance bank. Warburg's philanthropic activities are numerous. He is chairman of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies of New York City, vice president of the New York foundation, the Charity Organization society, and is an officer or director of a long list of other charitable organizations. His opinions of conditions in the Far East, set forth below, were gathered on a six months' tour of the world just completed.

Speaking of Asiatic conditions as seen by him on a trip abroad from which he has just returned, Mr. Warburg said:

"Judging by the results the English government has been successful in eradicating dangers to health in India, and has built roads and made the country accessible and its many beauties available to the visiting public. The standards of life and the difference between one caste and another, and one tribe and another are still very great. It will, no doubt, be a long time before that country will reach an agreement among its many adherents of different faiths and ideals of life and come to some common understanding.

"In China we witnessed the unfortunate civil war, and also were present at the time of the invasion of the Russian legation. China deserves to be permitted to work out its own salvation and ought to be relieved from the military wrangling into which it has been forced by a few over-ambitious so-called leaders who have perhaps been encouraged from the outside.

"We stopped in and saw quite a number of cities in Siberia during a trip of about two weeks. The riches of this country and forests, field and water power, not to mention furs and metals, is tremendous, and it ought to be only a question of organization and management, somewhat different from what they have now, to produce most gratifying results."

Poems That Live.

HER SUPERMAN.

Oh, what a night for a soul to go!
The wind a hawk, and the fields in snow,
No screening cover of leaves in the wood,
Nor a star abroad the way to show.

Do they part in peace—soul with its clay?
Tenant and landlord, what do they say?
Was it sigh of sorrow or release
I heard just now as the face turned gray?

What if, aghast on the shoreless main
Of Eternity, it sought again
The shelter and rest of the Isle of Time,
And knocked at the door of its house of pain!

On the tavern hearth the embers glow,
The laugh is deep, and the flagons low;
But without the wind and the trackless sky
And night at the gate where a soul would go.

Stiffly-starched children off for parks to return like crumpled chiffon. French taxis with smiles for Apolloesque cops. The burnished Jersey hills and the city shimmering in the sunlike filagree. The moon gets the credit for all the romance and most of it is inspired by the sun.

Wilson Bohannan Co. Expects To Begin Operations Here in Early July

Preparations for starting operation of the new Wilson Bohannan Co. factory on Buckeye st., an industry being moved here from Brooklyn, N. Y., are now well under way with prospects of commencing production at the plant early in July.

Four carloads of machinery have arrived from Brooklyn and the equipment is now being installed under supervision of four of the company's foremen. These men are moving here from Brooklyn and will continue as foremen in operation of the local plant.

According to present plans about 10 of the operating force at the Brooklyn factory will come to Marion to form the nucleus of the corps of employes here. The remainder of the force will be made up of local men.

Last Load of Machinery

The fifth and final carload of machinery is enroute from Brooklyn and is expected to arrive within a few days. When this equipment is installed the plant will be ready for operation.

W. B. Tway, president of the company, is now permanently located in Marion, his home being on Hane av. He is in full charge of preliminary arrangements for opening of the factory. Orders for the company's products are coming in daily so that it will be necessary to have the new plant operating at full capacity at as early a date as possible, Mr. Tway states.

MADGE BELLAMY in

"ANKLES PREFERRED"

and Now A Bigger Surprise

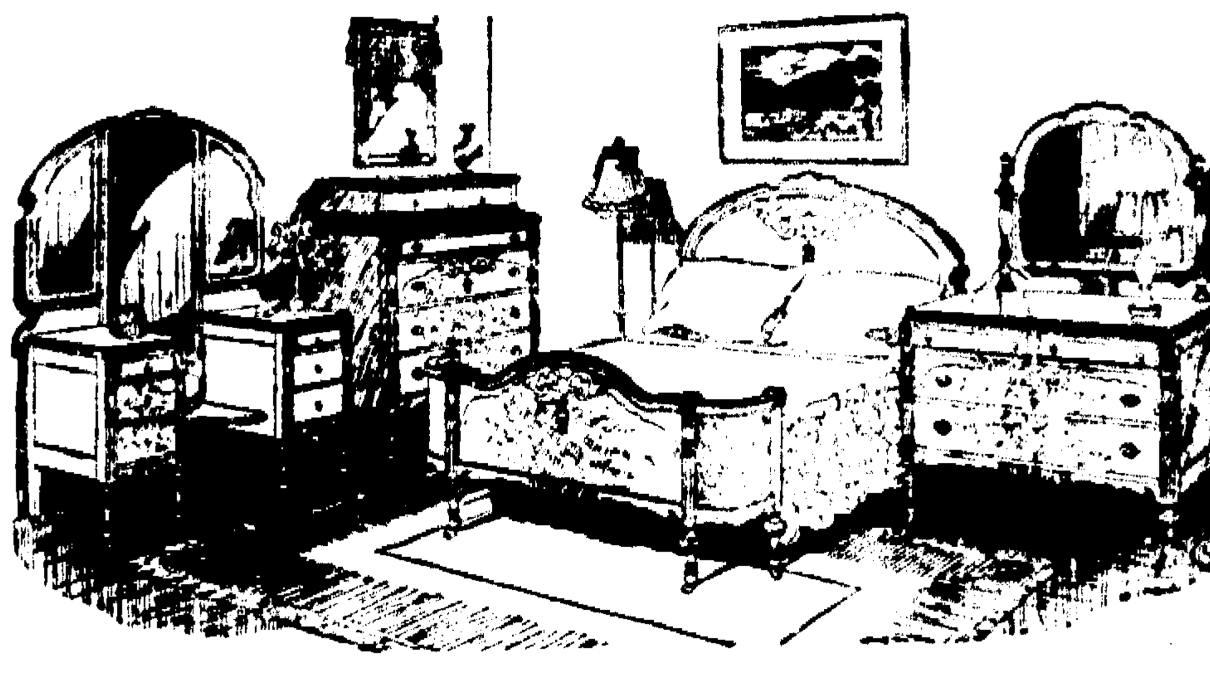

Another Miracle!

Last Friday Marion Stood Amazed At An Almost Unbelievable Offer of a Three-Piece Living Room Suite for $98.00. Tomorrow The Marion Furniture Co. Presents Another Merchandising Miracle — One That Absolutely Defies Competition — A 11-Piece Bedroom Suite — $119.00.

Following Friday's "first time in history" announcement, this store enjoyed one of the largest crowds in its career. Old customers flocked to take advantage of what they knew would be a value extraordinary. Those who thought it couldn't be done came too. They looked — they bought — and they left simply amazed at furniture values that laughed at competition. Furniture dealers — manufacturers — curious to learn how it could be done, examined these offerings to the last detail, and agreed that it was the first time in their experience that Marion had witnessed anything like it.

Let them come again — if last week's offering surprised them, this one will leave them speechless.

"How to do it" is The Marion Furniture Co. problem, and if you doubt our ability to repeat it, come here tomorrow — you, too, will marvel.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

"Would I be a wizard if I did not know better than the Moroccan Group itself know what is even now in the hands of Allah? Is there any save I alone who may foretell the outcome of that of which you speak?"

There was silence for a time and Larry began to wonder if the voice had given up questioning, but just as he was deciding this must be so, he heard it again. This time there was unconcealed menace in the powerful, throaty tones that rang through the throne room.

"What future have you read, wizard? What have you seen at the end of the coming event? Where will the crisis occur? Does the future, opened to you by the power of your magic, tell you this?"

Larry smiled, for now he was on safer ground; but his smile was hidden by an arm he threw quickly across his face. Simulating great conviction and assuming an enigmatic quality of expression, he droned in a deep monotone:

"What is written is written. This, I see: Moslem has called her sons, her children of the Seven Tribes of the Berbers, and their allies of the north, the south and the east have responded. Moslem prepares to move, and even now makes ready. I see a day—soon—when the sun comes up blood red in the east, when holy men leave their tasks of mercy and peace to become warriors, and on this day I see all southern Moslem moving—a mighty force, a valiant army, a frenzied gathering that acts because it is inspired. I see, O Voice, this force moving through the Atlas, converging on one point, coming together in a great camp before sweeping from the hills, down toward the plains, where infidel blood is to run like a crimson river, its waves as scarlet as the spray of hell. I see the force assembled before the Temple of Doom, then I see the tents

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

to my wave of the hand Lillian was greeting us, and Mr. Veritzen was eyeing her exaggeratedly with upturned neck. By the time our greetings were exchanged and Lillian had both of us upstairs, I had regained my composure. But even more fervently than when Philip Veritzen's proposal for a day in the country was first made to me did I thank my particular little star that Lillian was to be a third member of our group.

RED RASH ON FACE AND NECK

Caused Disfigurement. Cuticura Healed.

"A rash broke out on my face and neck. It was sore and red and later scaled over. The itching and burning were almost unbearable both night and day. It caused disfigurement for a time.

"I used other remedies for about six weeks but the trouble seemed to spread worse than ever. My brother advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. After using it I noticed an improvement so purchased more, and in about three weeks I was healed." (Signed) Nyties Gunter, Litchfield, Minn., Aug. 20, 1926.

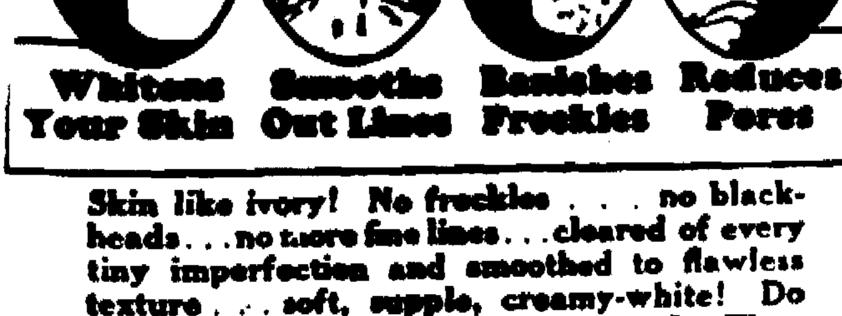

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are ideal for daily toilet uses.

400 "EXTRA DRY"

Motorists Everywhere are Turning to This Superior Gasoline — — —

It Costs No More!

Why 400 "Extra Dry" SHELL is Superior

The Improved Shell Way takes only the Gasoline from the Crude . .

The specifications in general use take the gasoline from the crude with fractions of the heavier and less volatile elements.

The SHELL way (400° End Point) takes only the gasoline from the crude—producing a higher gravity gasoline—extra dry, clean-burning and wonderfully powerful and effective.

Only such far-reaching improvements as balloon tires and 4-wheel brakes have equalled the favorable impression made upon the motoring public by 400 "Extra Dry" Shell . . . the superior gasoline that sells for the price of the ordinary kind.

At one stroke, by a radical change in its refining process, Shell Gasoline has been raised . . . not only in power and efficiency . . . but also in the estimation of those who take pride in the performance of their cars.

As a result . . . 400 "Extra Dry" . . . is the most talked-of gasoline on the market . . . praised and recommended on every hand . . . steadily sweeping on in popular favor.

Specially noteworthy is the preference shown for 400 "Extra Dry" Shell by men in the automobile business. Many dealers recommend it to their customers. Demonstrating salesmen use it to bring out the best in their cars. Truck owners, too, always alert for a chance to cut down operating costs, are instructing their drivers to "Change to Shell."

Drive to a Shell Yellow-red Service Station and try 400 "Extra Dry" today. Give the tank all it will hold. Drain the crankcase and refill with Shell Motor Oil. Then test your engine under the most difficult conditions and feel the difference!

The New Book

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

[illegible] Countess," the new [illegible] Anne Douglas [illegible] has fallen some[illegible] the expectations she [illegible]. The Little French [illegible] and more popu[illegible] new book is a contrast [illegible] and French person[illegible] and sinful characters.

[illegible] "Countess" is a tragic and [illegible] story based on [illegible] women for one man, [illegible] Graham, an Eng[illegible] one of the women, [illegible] in whom he found the companionship he loved, [illegible] refuge his irresponsible nature required and the devotion [illegible] temperament craved.

Certainly the most [illegible] far from the most [illegible] of the book is Madame de Lancourerie, the old countess, who [illegible] a [illegible] and decayed [illegible] French village, nourished by the memories of past and otherwise forgotten triumphs. When Graham [illegible] young [illegible] to stop in the village, Graham [illegible] the old lady meets him [illegible]. Her [illegible] of pity feeds her vanity and arouses her ageing desire to attract, to show to advantage the charms she has nearly lost. Her interest in the young man grows into a jealous, demanding love. As he paints her portrait, that very passion revealing the native vulgarity, vanity and selfishness of her character. She is not wholly bad but is presented in such a way as to arouse, at once, the reader's pity and disgust.

Surrounding Marthe Lodense, [illegible] ardent, beautiful young woman of a peasant type, who spends her days in caring for the old countess and such stray animals as she can coax to her cottage, is a combination of mystery and tragedy. Her life has been a solitary one since the death of her mother, spoken of as "mad," who has in a frenzy killed her husband for loving another woman.

It is Mademoiselle Lodense who [illegible], unconsciously and with no intention whatsoever of doing so, [illegible] awakening the love of the young artist.

Although Marthe, as a [illegible], conceals her love even from Graham himself until it becomes [illegible] the old countess, and [illegible]. The latter, in [illegible] practical manner [illegible] stance, and later [illegible] Marthe and her [illegible] rushes to their [illegible] Graham, while Marthe [illegible] her [illegible] adoration love of [illegible] a last attempt to save [illegible] swept away by a flood [illegible] landed on the roof of her cottage.

Graham, of course [illegible] comfort and the tale [illegible] quiet note of sadness. Although the climax [illegible] of the principal characters make not wholly desirable reading [illegible] ish and [illegible] gar and deceptive [illegible] can be commended [illegible] which the story [illegible] Anne Douglas Sedgwick [illegible] atmosphere [illegible] with a beauty and power that is unusual.

Although "The Old Countess" falls far short of "The Little French Girl," it proves an entertaining and certainly a rare [illegible] of fiction.

READING LIST APPEARS PROMISING

With the close of a particularly fruitful literary spring and at the threshold of an equally productive literary fall, the coming year's reading list appears most promising. The new novels certain to gain the attention of the lovers of entertaining and good books are Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Lost Ecstasy," a story of the west and of life, publishing June 18, and "A Good Woman," which Louis Bromfield, the author, describes as all the "Good Women" of America which has more than its share of them. The latter novel will be published July 28.

"A Good Woman," the fourth Bromfield novel, brings to a close his study of one phase of American life, the earlier novels, each complete in itself, being "Early Autumn," "Possession" and "The Green Bay Tree."

P. G. Wodehouse has produced another of his delightfully humorous novels in "The Small Bachelor," the story of a gentle young American and his amourous success.

For the young girl who has loved "Anne of Green Gables" and has already, perhaps, made the acquaintance of "Emily" in "Emily of New Moon" and "Emily Climbs," the author, L. M. Montgomery, now penetrates further into Emily's life in "Emily's Quest," a new book to be published in August.

WEEK-END LIBRARY AMONG RECENT ISSUES

In the interests of the week-ender who pauses in his round of swimming, golfing, boating, dancing for a moment or two of fictional entertainment, Doubleday, Page & Company have just published "The Week End Library," a varied little volume containing a full length novel, short stories, sketches, a play and light verse.

The book contains "The Constant Nymph," a recent novel by Margaret Kennedy; "The Old Soak's History of the World," Don Marquis' most popular book; "Dolling from Booth Tarkington's 'Women'"; Edna Ferber's "The Afternoon of a Faun," from "Gigolo," nine thoughts about books, London, Paris, and what not by Christopher Morley, a one-act play, "The Man in the Bowler Hat," by A. A. Milne, author of "When We Were Very Young," and "So There," a book of verse by F. P. A.

The book will be ready in two weeks.

THOMAS PAINE BIOGRAPHY OUT

A biography of Thomas Paine, by Mary Agnes Best, published by Harcourt, Brace and Co., reveals the fact [illegible] America has forgotten the decade [illegible] which Paine became one of the [illegible] of his time. Late in life [illegible] a prisoner in France for he attempted to save the life of Louis XIV. [illegible] wrote his brief book, "The Age of Reason," and became known as an atheist. His escape from the gallows in England and his work in America are all presented in the new biography, a clear illustration of man's inhumanity to man, as Paine was one of the great humanitarians of history.

Old Newspaper Story Reveals Personal Habits of Prominent Men of That Day

Personal items in the Marion Star of [illegible] were very abundant, and [illegible] personal were the notes that some of the papers reveal the personal habits of the leading figures of that day.

Those Marion people who are lucky enough to possess a copy of the Marion Star of Feb. 19, 1880, could read some interesting things, as was the custom in those days, about the prominent statesmen and other national personages of the day.

It happens that in that decade men of the country were having almost as hard a time in getting their shaving done as the gentlemen of today. In spite of the fact that the women did not occupy the chairs in the barber [illegible]

[illegible] happened [illegible] shops [illegible] are [illegible].

Shaving Private Affair

[illegible] a great many of the [illegible] their own [illegible]. A few however were noted to [illegible] of the barber.

[illegible] which appeared [illegible] Marion Star [illegible] that day [illegible] was not a [illegible] shaved [illegible].

Two of [illegible] were [illegible] "self-shavers." Cornelius Vanderbilt was said to have shaved [illegible] his own house every morning. W. K. another of the Vanderbilt clan [illegible] himself [illegible] when he was at [illegible] on other occasions he went to the barber shop.

General Sherman gave a tip to the future beard growers of this country when he set the example of having his [illegible] trimmed in a barber shop.

Shaved Daily

Matt Quay, an American Republican politician in the latter part of the nineteenth century, is said to be one of the pioneers in a bad habit which exists today. Matt was shaved at noon every day in the Pennsylvania House and it was said of him that he tipped his man liberally.

Wrinkled faces were at that time as much a tough proposition for the barber as they are at the present age. The ancient story in the Star revealed that Senator William Maxwell Evarts of New York was not easy to shave. There were so "many wrinkles in his face that they have to be smoothed out." The author of the story went on to tell that it was a mystery to the barbers how he ever shaved himself.

The barbers of today wish for a man as quiet in his chair as was Jay Gould, the great American capitalist of that day.

At times Jay had a barber come to his house once every two weeks to trim his hair and beard. He sat in an ordinary straight-backed chair when the task was being done and he seemed to be absorbed entirely in his thoughts. He always had to be aroused when the job was accomplished and frequently stared at the barber in wonder as though surprised that he would be there, according to the story.

Burns Sustained When Can of Kerosene Explodes Are Fatal to Woman In Kenton

Mrs. Freda Kathryne Kellogg, 27, Succumbs in McKitrick Hospital Following Accident at Farm Home; Funeral To Be Held Sunday

Kenton, June 24 Burns sustained when a can of kerosene, with which she was starting a fire, exploded, showering her with the flaming liquid, proved fatal last night to Mrs. Freda Kathryne Kellogg 27, in the McKitrick Hospital here.

The tragedy occurred in the Kellogg farm home northwest of Kenton.

Despite heroic efforts of a corps of physicians to save her life, she died several hours following the blast. The husband, Mack Kellogg sustained slight burns about the hands in rescuing his wife from immediate death and in preventing the dwelling, ignited by the blast, from burning down.

Using kerosene in starting a fire in the kitchen range to prepare the noon meal, Mrs. Kellogg set the can on the top of the stove and when she ignited the fuel it exploded throwing burning oil on her clothing. She was immediately enveloped in a mass of flames.

Neighbors immediately ... Mrs. Kellogg to a physician's office in Forest where first aid was rendered, and she was then brought to the hospital here.

The woman's face, body with the exception of the back and legs were covered with burns. Her hands and forearms were charred by the flames.

The body was taken to the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hiller in Washington Township last night to await funeral and burial.

Funeral To Be Sunday

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the St. John's Lutheran Evangelical Church at Blocktown, with the Rev. George Dell in charge. Interment in the Dunkirk Cemetery.

Mrs. Kellogg was born March 6, 1900, in Washington Township and had lived in Hardin County, north of Kenton all her life. Besides the husband and parents, four brothers, William Hiller, of Washington Township, Carl Hiller, of Pleasant Township, and George and Jonas Hiller, at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Baier, of Dunirk, and Miss Lorrean Hiller, at home, survive.

PLAN TO PAVE NORTH COUNTY BOUNDARY LINE

Crawford and Marion Officials Organize Jointly for Proposed Improvement

Proposed improvement of the county line road extending east and west along the boundary between Marion and Crawford couties, a project which has been under consideration more than a year, is up for hearing today at a joint meeting of the commissioners of the two counties being held at the office of the local board.

Agreement to proceed with the improvement was effected by commissioners of the two counties at a conference held here on May 16, when a resolution was adopted and an organization effected by electing Commissioner Huber of Crawford county chairman and Kinnamon of the local board secretary.

Expect Few Objections

The hearing today is for the purpose of giving property owners in both counties opportunity for filing objections or claims for damages. No serious developments of this kind are expected and there are prospects that plans for the improvement will proceed without hindrance.

The improvement, which will be an important link in the road system of the two counties, will be 3.6 miles in length, extending from the Marion-Bucyrus pike east to the Columbus I. C. H. No. 4, generally known as the ... pike. The county line road is especially important as a rural mail route and as a route for conveying pupils to centralized schools.

It will be constructed of dry-bound macadam, the pavement to be 12 feet in width on a 20-foot right-of-way. Its cost is estimated at $28,000. Plans have been prepared by County Surveyor C. R. Leavens.

Commissioners of the two counties first authorized the improvement on April 30, 1926 and effected an organization to proceed with the project. Crawford county was unable to finance its part of the cost last year and the project was dropped until this year when the Crawford county commissioners announced that funds were available.

[illegible]ng Station Operators [illegible]nted 90-Day Extension [illegible]nstall New Equipment

[A]uditor Earl C. Thomas Receives Notice From Charles Truax, State Director of Agriculture; Follows Many Complaints

[illegible] operators in Ohio [illegible] a 90-day extension [illegible] new equipmet with regulations of the [illegible] of weights and [illegible] Auditor Earl L. [illegible]rmed today in an offi[illegible] from Columbus. [illegible] in a letter from [illegible] state director of [illegible] executive head of [illegible] weights and measures [illegible] original order pro[illegible] pump equipment [illegible] or replaced to com[illegible]ments before July 1.

[illegible]ary Complaints

[illegible] resulted from numerous complaints received [illegible] sections of the state [illegible] measure in the sale of [illegible]. The state department [illegible] should be installed [illegible] absolutely accurate measure [illegible] sured in the operation of gasoline pumps.

Following the [illegible] order, Thomas and many other county auditors started inspection work in their counties and instructed owners of pumps and filling stations to provide proper equipment.

In spite of the fact that many operators had already taken steps to comply with the order and some had purchased new equipment, the state department granted the 90-day extension when only about [illegible] [illegible] the new regulations [illegible] become effective.

Hold Conference

Decision to grant the extension was reached following a conference held by state officials and representatives of oil and pump concerns at [illegible] Donahey's office on June 21, the letter from Truax states.

This will give filling station operators until Oct. 1 to meet requirements.

In his letter Truax informs the Marion County auditor that the oil and pump company representatives gave very good reasons why the extension should be granted, [illegible] evidence showing that it has been [illegible] impossible [illegible] equipment and complete [illegible] installation work before July 1, the date set in the original order.

Indication that there may be some changes and modifications of the original regulations is seen in one paragraph of the Truax letter in which he states that during the 90-day period one or more conferences will be held for the purpose of clearing misunderstandings or confusing language in the present weights and measures code.

Had Completed Plans

Thomas had completed all arrangements for putting the new regulations into effect in Marion county. After July 1 his deputy sealer of weights and measures was scheduled to inspect all gasoline pumps in the county and place the official seal only on those properly equipped with ap[illegible] necessary for guaranteeing accurate [illegible]. Operation of all pumps not [illegible] up to requirements would be prohibited.

As a result of the notice received from Truax today, however, Thomas says he will cancel these plans and take no further action until officially notified to proceed.

D'AUTREMONT BROTHERS BEGIN LIFE SENTENCES

Twins Make Confessions Following Admission by Hugh in His Part of Crime

Salem, Ore., June 24.—Atoning for one of the most widely advertised crimes in American history, three young brothers, Roy, Ray and Hugh D'Autremont, started life sentences in the Oregon Penitentiary today.

The three brothers confessed in Jacksonville, Ore., late yesterday that they had killed four members of the crew of a gold-laden train during an attempted tunnel holdup in the Siskiyou Mountains. The confessions ended a four year campaign by postal inspectors to bring the bandits to justice. Nearly a million dollars was spent in the search.

The confessions of the three brothers followed Hugh's conviction of the murder of Charles Johns, brakeman of the raided train. When the jury recommended life imprisonment, Hugh made a clean breast of his part in the crime. The confessions of Roy and Ray, immediately afterward, filled in details of the savage deed.

Warns Middle-Aged Women To Watch These Danger Signs

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in serious danger—because of poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system, polluting the blood stream and overworking the heart and kidneys, often resulting in chronic hepatic torpidity, gall bladder inflammation or even gall stones.

The symptoms—danger signs—that should be closely watched are dizziness, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness, and nights of restless misery.

Failure to heed "these warning signs" in time may mean months or even years of miserable ill health and perhaps a dangerous surgical operation!

Simple Home Recipe For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

If you are a victim of Stomach Trouble—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this good advice.

Artificial digestants and starvation diets are seldom needed. Within reason, most folks may eat what they like, if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion. And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with 3 or 4 tablets of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless form of Magnesia that swiftly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A few days' trial of Bisurated Magnesia tablets, which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that fully 90% of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary! Try Bisurated Magnesia tablets today!—Adv.

MARION'S horses all got a try-out yesterday in the classified trot event. Bill Clements' entry took second, being nosed out of first in the last two heats by Steve Watts, a Mc Millen entry.

STEVE PHILLIPS, official starter of the Marion harness race meet, had one tough time yesterday in every event. It took more than four hours for the four races of three heats each to be completed. On two occasions, drivers were compelled to go to their barns and repair the harness straps on their horses.

THE grandstand was almost empty yesterday afternoon when the final heat of the fourth race was run. Spectators on Thursday also became rather uneasy towards the end of the day's events. It was said in the judges' stand that four races was just one too many for one day and we're inclined to agree with the person who made the statement. Three's enough for one day.

A cold northwest wind had a lot to do with the spectators moving yesterday afternoon, however. The top seats of the grandstand were abandoned at 4 o'clock, about the time the third race was getting under way. The performance of Captain Volo kept many enthusiasts on the scene in spite of the cold.

WHAT'S the matter with the Chicago big league baseball teams?

Three weeks ago the White Sox made a wild dash for first place in the American League but fell flat when the New York Yanks knocked 'em cuckoo. They're in third place now.

The Cubs looked better than the White Sox for two weeks when they inaugurated a new record winning streak for the year in the National League. But they don't look so good now. They're in third place as a result of an unsuccessful series with the former third place Cardinals.

The New York Yankee sluggers are so far ahead of everybody and everything in the American League, that Chicago fans have almost given up hopes for their prize Pale Hose.

Prince Don broke [illegible] from the start and failed to [illegible] his stride in time to keep in the race. He was first choice for the event with Capt. Volo being rated a close second. Frisco Star [illegible] gave the winner a great battle for [illegible] in the initial heat but was nosed out at the wire when Volo made a dazzling finish.

Volo took entry walked away with the second heat, passing the field at the three-quarter post. He trailed in the third heat until within 100 yards of the finish and then made the leaders look foolish by stepping out in front to win. Volo was the only horse in yesterday's events to take a race in straight heats. His best time was 2:10¾.

Victor Frisco Wins

Victor Frisco, with Seeley up, was the only favorite to come through yesterday. The black gelding won the 2:16 trot, taking first in the two first heats and second in the last. His best time was 2:13¼. A $500 purse was offered in the event.

J. T. Grattan, rated as the favorite in the 2:21 pace, wasn't even in the show when Purdue and Harry D stepped into action. Purdue took the first heat and Harry D flashed through for the next two to win the race. Lauderdale, second choice, managed to place in fourth position. Brennan was the winning driver with Wolverton piloting Purdue. Best time for the event was 2:11¼.

Steve Watts Wins

Steve Watts, from Doc McMillen's London, O., stables, was the winner in the classified trot, the fourth event of the day. He took the last two heats after "Bill" Clemens' "Colby Turner" had breezed through for the first portion of the race. Clemens' local entry took second in the last two heats. Pifer did the piloting. Time for the respective heats was 2:22¾, 2:22¼ and 2:23¾.

Don Worthy, of M. L. Anderson's stables, was third in the race. Anderson has had his horses here for some time. Other Marion horses entered in the classified trot were Midge, Jr., owned by Henry Adams, Dorothy Bergen, owned by M. M. McKinum; Anna Belle McGregor, the property of E. W. Boyer, and Oberta Bingen, owned by Felt & Felt of this city. Midge, Jr., took fourth place in the race.

YALE FRESHMEN WIN OVER HARVARD CREW

Come from Behind for Triumph Over Rivals in Regatta

New London, Conn., June 24—Coming from behind in the last mile, Yale freshmen rode the Harvard crew into the bottom of their shells this morning to score the first victory in the annual regatta between the arch rivals of collegiate sports. Yale won by a length in the mediocre time of 9 minutes and 20 seconds for the two-mile distance.

Not "be good and you will be happy," but be good and you will make good.

THREE CAPITAL CITY GOLFERS STILL SURVIVE

Shute, Leo and Florio Lead in State Golf Tourney

DAYTON, June 24—With Joe Wells, of [illegible] Liverpool, the only [illegible] to survive a [illegible] of [illegible] the eight surviving [illegible] field of 150 O[hio] amateurs [illegible] in the state amateur golf championship tourney here today began the quarter finals.

Columbus, with three survivors, was the only city to be represented by more than a single player, and consequently was favored to cop the title.

Densmore Shute, continuing the consistent display of brilliant golf which made him the medalist, came through by defeating R. D. Hull, Dayton, 4 and 3; R. W. Lee, Columbus, put out Jess Bush, Dayton, 2 up, and John Florio, [illegible] showed a worthy foe by trimming Al Baumgartner, Cincinnati, 5 and 4.

Other Survivors

Others surviving at the tee-off this morning included Carmen Bill, Cleveland, who beat Christie Dedol, Youngstown, 7 and 6; V. K. Hilton, Dayton's lone remaining representative, who defeated Harry Sweitzer, Cleveland, 3 and 2, Sinclair Dean, of Lima, who eliminated Harold Weber, Toledo, 4 and 2, and Douglas Hill of Cincinnati, who put out Tom James, another Dayton hope, 4 and 3.

Parker Campbell, the defending champion, lost his first round match to Harry Sweitzer, Cleveland, who in turn succumbed to Hilton, of Dayton.

The 18-hole quarter finals were to be run off this morning, the semi-finals this afternoon, and a 36-hole match between the two survivors will decide the title Saturday.

DEMPSEY GOES INTO TRAINING FOR BATTLE

Establishes Headquarters at Saratoga; Leo P. Flynn To Be Manager

New York, June 24—Having scored a moral victory yesterday in top-hatting his man into a state of actual embarrassment, Jack Dempsey, the old, light hearted rollicking Jack of those freebooting days under Kearns, was to arrive at Lake Saratoga, N. Y., training camp early today to finish training for his comeback match with Jack Sharkey on July 21. His program outlined as he left New York last night with a $250,000 contract for the fight, called for complete rest until Monday after which the open season was to be declared on sparring partners.

Sharkey probably will get the jump on Dempsey by going into training today at the garden gymnasium, one floor below the spot where Dempsey got a psychological jump on Sharkey yesterday. This he did by "managing" most of the ex-gob's movements and conversation, meanwhile winking broadly at the open-mouthed populace in order to let it in on the fun.

Dempsey has engaged Leo P. Flynn, veteran boxing pilot, as business manager of his "comeback" campaign and chief adviser in his ring affairs. Flynn will leave tonight to take charge of Dempsey's training camp. He has handled more boxers than any other man in the business and the former champion will have a shrewd and experienced handler in his corner in future bouts.

MANDELL TO FIGHT

Expected To Meet Phil McGraw on July 15, Report

Detroit, June 24—Phil McGraw, Detroit lightweight, and Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, lightweight champion of the world, were to sign articles today for a title bout to be fought here on the night of July 15.

Floyd Fitzsimmons says he closed the match late yesterday afternoon when Eddie Kane, manager of Mandell agreed to terms. It is said that Mandell will receive $50,000 for defending his crown.

The match will be listed for 10 rounds to a referee's decision and will be held outdoors. A Michigan referee will be the third man in the ring.

TILDEN WINS OVER YOUNG FRENCH STAR

Not Called Upon To Extend Self in Second Set

Wimbledon, Eng., June 24—In the fourth round of play in the Wimbledon tennis championships today, William T. Tilden defeated C. Boussus, one of the younger French stars, 6-1; 7-5; 6-2.

The tall American star was not called upon to extend himself save in the second set, when Boussus ran the set to five all by clever play.

A huge crowd turned out to see the continuation of the historic tournament, and the name of Betty Nuthall was still on every tongue. Her spectacular defeat of Mrs. Molla Mallory yesterday now makes it sure that the 16-year-old English star will be a contender in the American championships in August.

Betty's mother, a mentor as well as a parent, has promised Betty that if she wins the Wimbledon title she needn't take the trouble to compete in the junior girls' championship, of which she holds the title.

LIFE UNBEARABLE FOR MAN WITH SORE ITCHING HANDS

Healed at last easily and quickly

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 28:—"For months all my fingers on both hands were covered with red, itching sores. They frequently gave out a watery fluid, and that, together with the terrible itching, made life almost unbearable. As my business necessitated having my hands in water a great deal, the suffering was made even worse. Doctors diagnosed my case as chronic eczema, but none of the prescribed salves helped me. Finally I began to use Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Now, after using two jars of this Ointment I am glad to say I am rid of my skin trouble and my hands are perfectly clear."—(Signed) J. Sheiner, 477 Sackman St.

Doyle floored Tremaine with a left hook to the jaw when he came up after taking the count of nine. Jimmy Dunn, Tremaine's manager, did not wait for the referee to finish the count but rushed into the ring and carried Tremaine to his corner.

If Youth But Knew

BY E. M. STATLER,
Hotel Operator

[illegible] literature or other [illegible] drawn the word [illegible] sitting obedient at [illegible] Law." My suspicion [illegible] a conception of Youth [illegible] been invented by a [illegible] who himself had broken the laws in his youth. [illegible] is the period of [illegible], when men [illegible] fully sit down to [illegible] a system of ethics for [illegible] the simple method of [illegible] own errors and ad- [illegible] youngest generation to [illegible] I would have young [illegible] conduct themselves law-lessly. There is a [illegible] of good behavior [illegible] good sense of every [illegible] will warn him not to [illegible] [illegible] suggestion of [illegible] they can impose on the [illegible] the laws which [illegible] learned through [illegible] error. [illegible] confidence in the [illegible] people what, specifically, they must and must not do.

Use Your Sympathy

[illegible] pathy and understanding of youth's [illegible] We older [illegible] ultimate happiness [illegible] beginning life by [illegible] the [illegible] toward life—the [illegible] positive—will [illegible]

Here is my idea. [illegible] and [illegible] should have it [illegible] But [illegible] also the period of building [illegible] career, so that these two [illegible] the instinct to play and [illegible] to grow day by day [illegible] power to do effective work in the world [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] every pull of these two [illegible] is exactly what will determine whether [illegible] of man or [illegible] The [illegible] must maintain a balance between these two things.

Consider two types of boys. One is so obsessed by the glamor of life that he wants always to be playing, always skipping work so that he [illegible] to resent work as an intrusion on his [illegible] That is what I have referred to as the "negative attitude."

Another [illegible] keeps his head. His imagination [illegible] early grasps the idea that work [illegible] gone at with enthusiasm and [illegible] spirit. At first he [illegible] at work only [illegible] personal necessity or because [illegible] sees all the adults about him working. Then, as he gets [illegible] things, he [illegible] that work, however [illegible] was meant for man's [illegible] and that any man who [illegible] his time trying to loaf gracefully is [illegible] That is the "positive attitude."

Can't Avoid Conscience

Nature has put in our make-up [illegible] called conscience which [illegible] know [illegible] as on the back [illegible] whenever we have done [illegible] And when we have [illegible] we are inclined to plunge recklessly into mad pleasures so that we may avoid the [illegible] of this same conscience. Yet the more we try to avoid [illegible] the more unhappy [illegible] and useless to others we become.

You may say that I, too, am moralizing. Well, call it that, yet I am merely repeating definite psychological facts which all of us, young and old, know very well to be true.

"If youth but knew"—Youth does know. [illegible] would stop to think, but youth is not reflective. So take it on the word of one who has been through it himself and has observed others, that there is a time in the life of every boy when he is teetering on the edge between a life spent in avoiding responsibilities or a rich career spent in welcoming hard work as the proper exercise of a strong personality.

Watch your choice!

Yes Sir, It's Surprising How Many 10-Cent Wedding Rings Are Sold Here, Clerks Say

DOZENS of girls and elderly women too stop at the [illegible] "jewelry" counter in the local F. W. Woolworth Five and Ten Cent store, each week for the purpose of purchasing 10-cent wedding rings, clerks say. [illegible] section of the jewelry [illegible] which is one of the most [illegible] in the whole store by [illegible] are the wedding rings. [illegible] rations of their more valuable [illegible] ter and each one bearing a [illegible] scripture tag with the word [illegible] [illegible]." They are made much after the patterns of the valuable ring and the narrow, and often of the approved orange blossom or [illegible] pattern.

Customers at the wedding ring counter are largely girls in their 'teens or schoolgirls, who doubtless buy the rings for a joke, the remark which generally accompanies such a purchase being "I want to have some fun." If she is a very nice looking girl, she often embarrassed, wants to [illegible] the purchase in a hurry, blushes and as she makes the customary remark ordinarily giggles.

Others Who Buy

Young girls are not the only ones who buy the clever little [illegible] for not so many days ago a well-dressed elderly woman entered the store, tried on the rings and bought one, explaining to the saleslady that she "had a valuable one" but was afraid she'd [illegible] if she were it on all occasions for [illegible] port, etc. Anyway [illegible] was displayed on [illegible] that occasion.

[illegible] girls buy the rings [illegible] of protection while [illegible] that if they [illegible] married it will lend [illegible] age and consequently [illegible] protection. Others buy them to use in [illegible] parties or to tease [illegible] frighten their parents [illegible] boy friend.

[illegible] is the fact that such rings purchased by [illegible]. Perhaps they feel [illegible] ring might not [illegible] to matrimony, preferring [illegible] their uncertain [illegible] prepared. Boys are often seen buying engagement [illegible] what becomes of [illegible] interesting enough for [illegible]. At least the [illegible] buy cheap engagement [illegible] seem to arrive at the [illegible] stage that is not in the [illegible] expensive variety—to be found in the five and ten cent store.

There is the woman who fears burglars [illegible] and wears [illegible] engagement and wedding ring of the 10 cent variety to bed.

FARM WOMEN LAUD M'NEAL ON DANCE ORDER

Vote To Send Letter of Approval to Probate Judge; 100 Attend Picnic

It was voted to send a letter of approval to Judge L. B. McNeal for his action in closing the dance hall at Crystal Lake Park on Sundays at a brief business meeting which preceded the program and social hour at the fifth annual picnic of members of the Marion County Farm Women's Clubs yesterday afternoon at Garfield Park. It also was voted to send a telegram to Governor Donahey expressing the disapproval of the discontinuance of the state library scheduled for July.

About 100 members and guests were seated at long tables arranged in the Rainbow Garden picnic pavilion where later the program was given by members of the clubs. The program hour opened with the singing of "America," followed by a delightful piano number by Miss Lena Schaber, representing the Never Fail Club. Miss Schaber was heard later in the program in another piano solo. An entertaining playlet, "Woman Suffrage," was given by Mrs. Truman Owen, Mrs. Albert Click, Mrs. F. M. Fairchild and Miss Alma Click, members of the San Souci Club, and a pleasing whistling number, "When the Dew Is on the Rose," by Mrs. Gail Smith, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Byron Rice. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Rice are members of the Pleasant Farm Women's Club.

Gives Three Readings

Miss Nyla Miller, representing the Big Island Hustlers' Club, pleased the audience with three readings, "Bill," "So W[illegible] F[illegible]" and "Mr. Finklestein Sells a Suit," and members of the Claridon Progressive Women's Club presented an entertaining sketch, "How the Story Grew." Those taking part were Mrs. Hayes Holland, Mrs. Calvin Baldinger, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. M. Goss, Mrs. Clay Swath, Mrs. Clyde Smith, Mrs. Walter Sickel and Mrs. Merle Lashey.

The program concluded with a playlet, "The Charm of the Old Album," by Mrs. Frank Moyer, Mrs. William Knichel, Mrs. Lee Griffith and Mrs. Dayton Hedges.

The federation, which was effected three years ago, includes the following farm women's organizations: Pleasant Farm Women's Club, Claridon Progressive Women's Club, Joy Makers Club of Salt Rock Township, Never Fail Club, San Souci Club, Big Island Hustlers and Thimble Bee Club. Officers chosen for a term of two years are Mrs. S. B. Stowe, president; Mrs. S. J. Martin, vice president, Mrs. E. M. Porter, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Thompson, treasurer.

The next annual meeting and picnic will be held in June next year at which time officers will be elected.

"I can't help wondering who is coming," muttered he. "I hate to run away without finding out. Guess I'll hide behind that [illegible] and see what happens. I was silly to be frightened, even for a second. There is no animal around here that will dare hurt a Two-Legs."

Suiting his action to his words, he sped [illegible] and crouched down behind [illegible] been there but a moment when he heard a [illegible] voice.

[PO]INT OF LAW [D]EBATED IN [DIVO]RCE ACTION

[Attorney]s in Interesting Argument at Hearing on Motion in Smith Case

[Motio]n to quash service of summons in the divorce suit of John R. [Smith ag]ainst Mina R. Smith brought [the attorn]eys over an interesting point [wh]en it came up for hearing before Judge Scofield in the common pleas.

[Smit]h is now a resident of St. [Petersbur]g, Fla., and notice of her suit was served upon her [by pub]lication of a legal advertisement. No affidavit stating that she [wa]s resident of Marion County [was fil]ed and her attorney asserts [this ov]ersight invalidates the publication as a legal summons. Attorneys [for Smith] maintain that the affidavit is [not need]ed.

[T]aken Under Advisement

[The que]stion was taken under advisement by Judge Scofield, whose decision is expected within a few days.

[The] suit for divorce is not contested by his wife; the purpose of the motion [to quash] the service of summons being to safeguard whatever claim [she m]ay have to dower property rights. [Mr. and] Mrs. Smith were married in [Aug]ust 18, 1892, and have four [children] of legal age with the exception of one son, who is 19. Smith [is rep]orted Jan. 21 of this year [and is r]epresented by Mouser, Young [& Mouser] and L. E. Myers is attorney [for Mrs. Sm]ith.

Seeks Partition

[...] Harraman brought suit in [the court] of common pleas today asking [partitio]n of ownership rights in lot [... i]n the Stringer & Strobel addition to the city of Marion in which [plaintiff] has an undivided one-half interest. The other half, he [says, is he]ld by Lillian B. Harraman, [who is nam]ed as defendant in the action [along] with the Marion Building & Loan Co., which has a first [mortgage of] $1,600 on the property. [The plain]tiff asks that the loan company be required to set up its claim [and that] an order of partition be issued. [H]e is represented by the law [firm of Mo]user, Young & Mouser.

To Strike Out Petition

[In the] suit of Marion Shaull administrator of the estate of Nathan [...] against Arthur L. Ridenour, [a motion] to have the plaintiff's petition stricken from the [files has] been sustained. The suit is [for an acc]ount of an account.

To Plead By July 23

[...]m H. Somerlot, defendant in [a suit for] damages brought in the common pleas by Logan Emery [as adm]inistrator of the estate of [...] Cowgill, has been granted [leave to] plead by July 23. The suit is [the outco]me of an automobile accident at a railway crossing in Allen County. Somerlot was owner of the automobile in which Mrs. Cowgill was riding when the accident occurred. The driver was his son, [...] Somerlot and the petition asserts that the father is liable for damages because of the son's alleged careless driving.

Appointments

Fred N. Truex was appointed administrator of the estate of Birdie H. Truex and Gail Van Gordon and Louis Rinnert administrators of the estate of Anna E. Rinnert in probate court today.

POLICE MAKE EFFORT TO ELIMINATE ALIBI

Local Officials Considering Installing Larger Light Bulbs in Signal Posts

In an effort to eliminate the excuse offered by those who, when caught driving past the traffic signal posts, say they were unable to see the word "stop," the police department is considering installing larger light bulbs and removing the shutters that cover each of the 12 openings.

An experiment was made by the police today of the light at the intersection of Center and Main sts. Larger bulbs were installed and the shutters were removed resulting in the words showing up more plainly.

Each day many drivers, especially those from out of the city, when ordered by the police for driving past the "stop" sign offer the excuse that they were unable to see the stop signal. With the small bulbs and the shutters being on the light there was some reason to their excuse, the police say.

CAR FOUND HERE OWNED BY INDIANA RESIDENT

Ownership of Abandoned Auto Partly Established Through Letter to Sheriff

Ownership of a 1927 model Willys Knight coach, which was found abandoned in an orchard about five miles north of the city several days ago, was partly established today when Sheriff James A. Deal received a letter from the automobile registrar of Indiana stating that the machine is the property of a Waterloo, Ind., resident. The name of the owner was not stated in the letter.

Deal wrote to Waterloo today for the purpose of obtaining additional information.

The machine, according to information received by the sheriff, was stolen near Waterloo the day before it was found here, the theft supposedly having been committed by joy-riders.

A farmer living near the orchard discovered the abandoned car and notified the sheriff at once. The machine was not damaged although it showed signs of long and hard driving.

FAVORITES RECOVER MARKET CLOSING LOSSES

Bears Make No Effort To Follow Advantage of Thursday Slump

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks firm; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds firm; foreign bonds steady; call money 4 per cent; grain irregular; copper irregular; oil irregular; cotton fairly steady; rubber firm; sugar firm; foreign exchange steady.

New York, June 24.—The usual recoveries in the speculative leaders on the stock exchange today were brought about by short covering and speculative buying of the stocks which led in Thursday's closing slump. The absence of important liquidation or "distress selling" of margined holdings of industrial stocks together with the [...] the market [...] dull on reactions stimulated wide short covering from which source the market derived its principal buying power.

The bears made no effort to follow up the advantage gained in Thursday's closing reaction. Almost from the start the shorts began climbing back covering their contracts instead of adding to their short sales.

If the reported demand for railroad steel materializes within the next six months the second half of that period should be a very active one for the steel industry. Steel stocks today were firm in anticipation of that result, and leaders of the industry expressed themselves as confident of the outlook.

Weekly reserve bank reports showed a good gain in reserves, not only for the New York institution but also for the whole system and money supplies are the least of the market's worries at this time.

The Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York, N. Y., Trustee.

Mr. Louis H. Brush, President of the Company, has summarized his letter to us as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., has been organized under the laws of Ohio and will acquire prior to the delivery of these Notes all of the issued and outstanding shares of stock (except directors' qualifying shares) of the following companies

The Repository Printing Co., owning and publishing The Evening and Sunday Repository, Canton, O.
The Harding Publishing Co., owning and publishing The Marion Star, Marion, O.
The Salem Publishing Co., owning and publishing The Salem News, Salem, O.
The East Liverpool Publishing Co., owning and publishing East Liverpool Review-Tribune, East Liverpool, O.
The Herald Printing Co., owning and publishing Steubenville Herald-Star, Steubenville, O.

These newspapers are all located in progressive and prosperous Ohio cities and are the most important and oldest in their respective localities, having been founded from 48 to 121 years ago. They are the only dailies (the "Repository" also publishes a Sunday edition) published in their respective cities with the exception of Canton, where the "Repository" is the leading publication both as to circulation and advertising. The territory covered by these newspapers is compact and well lends itself to a unified management and supervision at a minimum cost of operation.

SECURITY: These Ten-Year Collateral Trust 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Notes will be direct obligations of The Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., and in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by pledge with the Trustee under a collateral trust indenture, of all of the issued and outstanding shares of stock (except directors' qualifying shares) of the five subsidiaries described above. The Trust Indenture will restrict the creation of mortgage indebtedness and limit dividend payments during the life of this issue.

The Consolidated Balance Sheet of the Company and said subsidiaries at December 31, 1926, as certified to by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, adjusted to give effect to this financing, showed the value of the Properties, Circulation, Good-will, Associated Press Memberships, Contracts, Franchises, etc., to be $3,665,136.53, which Messrs. Palmer, De Witt and Palmer of New York, experts in newspaper valuations, advise have a fair realizable value well in excess of $4,000,000.

EARNINGS: The combined earnings of said subsidiary companies for the four years ended December 31, 1926, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, were as follows:

Year ended Dec. 31,	Net Earnings Before Interest, Depreciation and Federal Income Taxes	Depreciation	Net Earnings After Depreciation and Before Interest and Federal Income Taxes
1923	$212,461.64	$28,041.55	$184,420.09
1924	275,733.23	32,927.75	242,805.48
1925	417,189.35	46,144.15	371,045.20
1926	473,652.23	55,418.69	418,233.54
Annual interest charges on these Notes			$107,250.00

For the four years ended December 31, 1926, the average annual net earnings before interest, depreciation and Federal Income Taxes, were 3.2 times the maximum annual interest charges on these Notes and for the year ended December 31, 1926, were 4.4 times, and after deducting depreciation 2.8 times and 3.8 times, respectively. The Auditors report the combined earnings for the first four months of 1927 to be at an annual rate in excess of 1926. For the four years ended December 31, 1926, the subsidiary companies paid cash dividends in excess of $700,000.

SINKING FUND: The Trust Indenture will provide for semi-annual payments to the sinking fund, commencing May 1, 1929, calculated to retire over two-thirds of this issue by maturity. The Company further covenants to make additional annual payments to the sinking fund out of earnings to the extent stated in the Trust Indenture.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of these Notes will be used to reimburse the Company for the cost of the acquisition of The Repository Printing Company (the "Repository"), for the retirement of outstanding preferred stock of the subsidiaries, for plant improvements and other corporate purposes.

Legal proceedings in connection with this issue are being passed upon by Messrs. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, of New York, for the Bankers and William H. Vodrey, Esq., East Liverpool, Ohio, for the Company. We offer these Notes when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that definitive Notes will be ready on or about July 5, 1927.

People Swarm Roosevelt Field as Flight Preparations Are Made

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., June 24—Perched proudly on an incline leading to a long runway here today is the giant silver-bodied, gold-winged monoplane, America, ready to wing its way toward Paris at a moment's notice.

It was to have flown at dawn this morning, but at the eleventh hour, after final preparations had been made, the hop-off was postponed indefinitely because a storm suddenly burst over the coast of Newfoundland.

Commander Richard E. Byrd and the three men who will make the flight with him were deeply disappointed, and so were several thousand persons who swarmed over Roosevelt Field eager to witness the start of the epochal expedition.

Not Today, Belief

"I thought sure we were going this time," said Byrd, who is fretting over the repeated delays. "I hope it won't be long before we do go. And we'll go the moment the weatherman gives us the word that conditions are right."

But the weatherman who is advising Byrd does not think the America can take off today. He is James H. Kimball, United States weather bureau meteorologist. It was Kimball's report shortly after midnight that prompted Byrd to delay the hop-off.

"They certainly will not be able to go today, and Saturday is too far away to make a prediction," was the pessimistic comment of Kimball.

It was a night of excitement at the hangar. Throughout the evening automobiles came in droves with persons eager to see the take-off. Several thousand persons swarmed over the field as the America was wheeled from its hangar and taxied three-quarters of a mile to the incline, giving rise to the belief that the long-awaited hop-off was imminent.

Goes for Sleep

Commander Byrd, after a final conference with Anthony Fokker, designer of the plane, had departed for the Garden City Hotel to get a few hours' sleep before getting away on the transatlantic flight, and all around the hangar there was a tenseness that has not hitherto prevailed.

Telegraph instruments beat out a steady staccato and reporters by the dozen pounded away energetically at typewriters.

Fifty-eight uniformed policemen stood guard near the hangar, keeping the crowd beyond ropped off spaces. The spectators, however, were orderly.

Precisely at 8:10 p. m. the America was wheeled along a narrow railway in the hangar to a position directly in front of the hangar where it was jacked up and weighed. The beam tipped at close to 14,500 pounds.

Taxied Across Field

This procedure was supervised by Bert Acosta, who will pilot the plane. He was assisted by T. Harold Kinkade, expert on motors who previously had put his O K on the three motors of the America.

Then, with policemen forming a semi-circle about it, the black nose of the plane was turned south in the direction of the incline from which the take-off was to be made.

Acosta climbed into the cockpit and the plane was taxied across the field under its own power. It moved slowly in the dusk of the dawnings night and was followed by about 1,000 men, women and children. The plane stopped in front of a 50-foot dirt incline. Ropes were stretched for a hundred yards on both sides at the incline to keep the crowd back.

Motion picture cameras clicked and flashlights popped as the American drew up in front of the incline.

Food Supplies Ready

Food supplies were then brought to the plane. Tony Argan, Hempstead restauranteur who supplied the Chamberlin-Levine expedition, came rushing across the field in a car with two roast chickens, 10 cheese and turkey sandwiches, three quarts of coffee and two quarts of tea.

As darkness fell the field was completely encircled by glaring automobile lights. Cars were parked in a circumference of four or five miles and more automobiles arrived steadily.

Without warning, at 9:45 p. m., a gale blew up over the field, followed almost immediately by a drenching rain. The crowd scurried for cover. The only place of refuge except automobiles within reaching distance was the brightly lighted hangar, three-quarters of a mile away and the crowd made for it. Lightning accompanied the storm and in the excitement several women fainted according to the police and others lay prone on the ground.

There was another flash of lightning and the lights in the hangar went out. Reporters and telegraph operators were forced to work by the lights of matches and candles. Men and women who had no credentials to enter the hangar rushed through the ropes and the police had their hands full beating them back.

Message from Byrd

For a few minutes there seemed to be a possibility that the plane would be blown over. To prevent such a disaster, the plane was lashed by ropes to Kinkade's car. Kinkade started his automobile and pulled in the opposite direction from which the wind was blowing. This kept the plane upright until the storm blew over, in about 20 minutes. The indicator on Kinkade's car registered 45 miles an hour.

When the storm abated people emerged from their cars and soon the field was again alive with spectators.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the plane was pulled up the incline by a tractor.

Then, shortly after midnight, the telephone in the hangar rang. A newspaperman answered it.

"This is Byrd," said the voice on the wire. "The hop-off has been postponed. Yes, the same old reason, a storm—this time over Newfoundland."

BLIND PENSION VOUCHERS ARE BEING PREPARED

Payments To Be Made on July 1; 55 Persons on List

Vouchers for quarterly pension payments to indigent blind residents of Marion County to be made July 1 are now being prepared in the office of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas on authorization of the board of commissioners.

There are 55 blind persons on the pension list for this quarter and payments for the three-month period will total $1,158. Practically all sections of the county are represented in the list, although a majority of the pensioners reside in the city of Marion.

Allowance Range

The largest quarterly allowance is $37.50 and the smallest $12. The pensions are proportioned according to the needs of the pensioners, their health and family connections being taken into consideration.

The number of blind persons on the list has shown little change in recent years in spite of the steady increase in population of the county, records show. Several pensioners died during the last few years and new applications granted has kept the list at about the same figure. Last year blind pension payments in the county totaled $4,487.44.

The fund is in charge of the county commissioners, who act upon all applications. Quarterly payments are made on Jan. 1, Apr. 1, July 1 and Oct. 1.
